

I am filled with anger Negativity Judgment To my last pore Not a moment passes when I'm not distracted By an angry or a negative thought I criticize and I'm being criticized Then I cry Because everything is so hard And life favors the strong After you die people write and say So wonderful things about you But no one says anything While you are still alive Do I need to die In order to be loved?