

Come with me, you said with a outstretched hand. Your eyes sparkle like stars up in the sky, your beautiful wide smile melted my heart. I walk toward you take your hand in mine. You pull me closer, whispering words of encouragement. I breathe you in, close my eyes and feel your heart beat. I know you won't ever let go that strong hold on me, even if sky fell down, ocean overflowed and all fell into darkness. Because you showed me home, save haven. It's you.