

One says This is the way it is The other one claims the opposite Both see only their own side
Unable to realize They are just pawns for their group and ideology Soldiers in a game of chess
Only of single colour And capable of moving to just one direction